"Scooped" General Allenby.

The story of how Jerusalem was given over by the Arabs, not to General Allenby, but to two army cooks was told by Maj. Allen Barrow at a recent gathering of the Royal Photographic Society. It appears that the two men had been sent out to get food for the officers of their company, and that to these two British Tommies the Arabs came and, with good intentions, handed them the keys of Jerusalem. The accomplishment of the men adds to the comedy of a situation worthy of Gilbert and Sullivan. One of the cooks asked what he was supposed to do with the "bunkin' city."

The Movies.

American motionpicture films are produced in sufficient quantities in the United States to enable the exhibitor to equal the best of the foreign supply. During the year ending June 30 the total length of films exported was 100,000,000 feet, or more than 20,000 miles, and of these nearly 100,000,000 feet were exposed films, ready for use. The remainder were unexposed. This establishes the United States as the world's largest manufacturer of films. Even this falls below the record of 1917, when more than 200,000,000 feet were sent to foreign countries and to our colonies. More than $1,000,000 worth of foreign films were imported during the fiscal year 1918.

Porcelain Candles.

Porcelain candles are the latest development in the problem of cheap lighting. They consist of a small white shell cylinder in exact imitation of a candle, filled with a few ounces of paraffin and furnished with a wick, which burns quite like a candle. They are much used in the Scandinavian countries. (The News.)

ELLENVILLE.

Ellenville, Jan. 2.—Wood & Russell have been presenting to customers and friends this week, a very beautiful calendar entitled, "The Angel of the Battlefield," reproduced from original painting by C. D. Williams. One never saw such real men in a picture as the artist has given here, full of character and splendid types, and the girl is an angel, a lovely young woman, who embodies all that woman is doing for humanity and the men exemplify the spirit of the civilized world today as they pay homage to women. "God bless her!" The artist pictures Italy in the figure of an Alpinist in the gray, green uniform of his army, the warrior at the left of the painting. America speaks through a khaki-clad soldier and a jackie in navy blue, the sailor's arm affectionately thrown across the kneeling figure, representing Belgium. In the sky blue garb and the steel helmet of the nation's field service, heroic France represented in her soldier boy stands at salute, pays tribute to woman and humanity. Standing with the Dutch are a Royal Highlander and a sturdy Fusilier, a wonderful picture, a poem in paint, a great human document. It is a picture so big that even a big man is only capable of it in one of his really great moments. C. D. Williams was born in Texas, commenced his art career as an illustrator in Chicago in 1893. His studio is now in New York. In recent years his paintings of ideal heads and his mural decorations have given him a high place in American art.

The Ellenville Musical Club, of which Mrs. Henry Horton, the efficient president, is engaged in New York this winter, entertained for "guest night" a very interesting and successful Monday evening, and a large attendance of members and guests enjoyed a delightful evening under the direction of the club members. The program was given, there were vocal solos, which were well rendered by Mrs. E. Kimble and Miss Carolyn Clark, two very beautiful quartets by Mrs. J. R. DeVany, Mrs. W. S. Maines and the Misses Virginia and Pauline Taylor, and songs by the club. Following the excellent program in the hall, the members and guests retired to the large lobby of the hall, and seated around the beautiful fireplace while corn was popped and the company joined in singing the old songs and the new, new songs that are so popular. It was a real old-fashioned party with a splendid touch of the new. A very delicious lunch was served, and enjoyed with a most delightful social intercourse, and all were loth to leave when good nights were said, from such a happy environment, not soon to be forgotten, as new things come this way.

Very handsome calendars have been presented to customers and friends from the drug stores of Frank J. Campbell and Pittsford & Schoonmaker, from the jewelry store of Joseph Hyatt, and from the store of Elmer Palmer and from the Terwilliger Agency.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Lauber and Mrs. Lauber's mother, Mrs. Alice Newkirk, entertained a company of friends at their hospitable home, the late John R. Hunt residence on Maiden Lane, which included Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Gardner, Woodridge; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gardiner, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mason, Mrs. M. A. Newkirk and son, Oscar Newkirk, of Dairyland, and Mr. Lauber's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lauber, near Woodbourne, and Mr. and Mrs. Addison Stratton, Ellenville.

George Freer, in the U. S. navy, stationed at Pensacola, Fla., is spending a short furlough with his parents, Officer and Mrs. Arch Freer, on Warren street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sarr of Bridgeport, Conn., are spending the holidays with Ellenville relatives, guests of Mrs. Sarr's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown, on Broadhead street.

Miss Elizabeth Baxter of Kingston spent New Year's Day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Baxter, on Liberty street. On Tuesday evening, her sister, Mrs. M. B. O'Neill, entertained a company of friends in her honor at her home on East Canal street.

On, and Mrs. George M. Beebe have closed their home on Maple avenue and gone to spend some time at Manchester, N. H.

Mrs. Canfield and son, Chester, of Newburgh, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Freer, at Leurenkill, and friends in Ellenville.

Mrs. Thomas Gray and two daughters, the Misses Beatrice and Bernice Gray, have been quite ill at their home on Market and Main streets the past week.

Marlin Deocher, employed at the Pompton Lakes, spent New Year's at his home on Center street.

Mrs. Thomas Dow, visiting her sister, Mrs. Duggan, on Center street, received a telegram from her husband at Hoboken that their son, Arthur Dow, enlisted in service in France, had arrived in New York waters, all safe, and had gone to Camp Meade, Md.

New Year's Day was quietly observed in Ellenville with but little stir throughout the day. The weather was very misty, but warm. Many home dinner parties were enjoyed and all business was suspended. A fine dinner at the Mitchell House and the restaurant of Bert Cornelius, which is well known for its good dinners, received very liberal patronage and the basketball game in the evening between Alumni and local teams, with music by Brady's orchestra of Middletown, was enjoyed by a large crowd.

The Rev. Dr. Charles A. Holla of Ossining will occupy the pulpit of the M. E. Church on Sunday, both morning and evening. Dr. Holla delivered the splendid sermon in this church a few Sundays ago and his return is eagerly looked forward to by the congregation and friends.

Regular services will be held at the Lutheran Church on Sunday. The subject of the sermon by the pastor, the Rev. H. G. Corlies, for the evening will be "Lamentations."

At St. Mary's Church on Sunday, the Feast of the Holy Name will be celebrated. The Holy Name Society and Queens' Daughters will receive guests. Masses will be at 8 and 10:45 a. m.

John McKay, evangelist of New York city, will commence on Sunday a series of special meetings in the M. E. Church at Grahamville.

It is understood that the Rev. H. H. Clemens, who has been called to St. Andrew's, will return shortly to the pastorate of the M. E. Church at Cananota. During his absence the Rev. Newman J. Henry of Accord will occupy the pulpit.

Mrs. Lillian Holmes of Middletown has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. George Craft on Cape avenue.

Direct word from Melvin Schoonmaker, who was for a long time in German camps, now in France with his old company, was received by his brother, Myron Schoonmaker, at Wawarsing.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Vedder spent the holidays with their son and daughter and their families at Woodhaven, L. I.

Robert Westbrock, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Westbrock, of Broadhead street, has been released from service and returned to his home at Hempstead, L. I.

Mr. and Mrs. William Terwilliger and daughter, Miss Edith Terwilliger, of Middletown, have been visiting his father, John N. Terwilliger, and sister, Mrs. Mame Stevenson, on Church street.

Walter Kuhlman was home from New York for the holidays.

Miss Florence Startup and brother, Lial, are spending the holiday vacation with their cousin, Lola Startup, at Port Jarvis.

On Monday evening, December 30th, the young friends of Miss Frances Boos, tendered her a variety shower at the home of her cousin, Miss Florence Hoffman. In addition to the large number of beautiful gifts showered upon this popular young friend, very delicious refreshments were served and they were enjoyed with a delightful social intercourse.

The KITCHEN CABINET

The best thing to take people out of their old worries is to go to work and find how other folks worries are getting along.

CHESTNUT TIME.

This delicious nut lends itself in so many ways in cookery that it should occupy a much larger place on our tables.

Chestnut Soup.—Shell and blanch 60 or 70 good chestnuts, remove the inner skin and put them on to simmer in a quart of good stock. When tender rub through a puree sieve moistening the puree as you do so with the stock. Boil again then simmer on the back part of the stove, season to taste, add a few tablespoonsful of cream or an egg beaten and added to a little milk. Serve with croutons. French cooks often brown the chestnuts in a little fat before cooking them in stock, this changing the flavor as well as the color somewhat. A bouquet of herbs may be used for seasoning.

Cooked chestnuts used with apple and celery as in a Waldorf salad is a most tasty salad. A few other nuts may be added for flavor if desired, which will improve the salad.

Chestnut Sauce to Serve With Turkey.—To three tablespoonsful of the fat left in the roasting pan add two tablespoonsful of flour, stir until frothy, scraping the pan to remove all the glaze. Pour into this a cupful of potato water left from the potatoes when cooking, as this is rich in mineral salts, stir and cook until thick, season with salt and pepper, and add a pint of mashed chestnuts which have been well cooked, together with a teaspoonful of chili sauce. Pour into a sauceboat and serve with the turkey.

Chestnut Custard.—To a cupful of chestnut pulp, add the yolks of three eggs, one beaten white, one cupful of rich milk, a little flavoring and sugar to taste. Pour into a buttered dish and bake slowly. Make a meringue with the other two whites and two tablespoonsful of sugar, spread it over the custard and brown in the oven. Chestnuts preserved in a lemon syrup make a most delicious conserve to add to various frozen dishes or as a garnish for desserts.

Where the nuts are plentiful, just boiled then skinned and mashed add butter and salt, they make a fine vegetable to serve with meats.

Missionary Meeting.

The January meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the First Methodist Church will be held at the home of Mrs. Katherine Van Keuren, Broadway and West Chester street, on Tuesday afternoon, January 7, at 2 o'clock. As it is so near the Christmas time the topic for the afternoon will be "The Holy Land." The devotional service will be in charge of Mrs. Milton G. Holmes. Mrs. Pauline Cady will take the last part of the program through the Holy Land, pointing out the things that were seen and experienced through that land. Mrs. James Fandy will give some bits

The Scrap Book

AID TO SOLDIERS ON MARCH

Strap Fastened Tightly About Foot Said to Be Valuable for Prevention of Fatigue.

Bonnette (Presse Medicale) calls attention to the value of a strap fastened tightly about the foot to facilitate locomotion when the extremities are tired from prolonged marching and counter-marching. Under these conditions the plantar tissues sag, the nerves are pressed and dragged upon and the ligaments become tender. Immobilization of joints by means of the strap brings relief and permits the making an additional effort to complete the march. The strap is passed in figure of eight fashion under the instep, in front of the foot and behind the ankle—over the shoe. This procedure has proved so effective that some have used the straps for preventive purposes to defer fatigue.

THE ARMISTICE.

And this was Germany—this puff of dust. This worn gray shoddy, and this iron rust!

This was the Germany where Goethe wrote, Where Mendelssohn gave forth his golden note, Where Schiller won our hearts with his noble words, Where Wagner's greatest triumphs first were heard! We loved you, when your poets nobly sang

Of Liberty—we heard the sabers clang These seven years gone by—and when you hushed The Voice of Liberty, and when you crushed Those who dreamed high in 1848, We welcomed them with open, wide-throated gale. "I fought mit Sie!"—and no braver word Through all our ringing history has been heard! Franz Sigel, soul of German freedom, Outlawed at home, received with us your due! We loved you, Germany—and when you turned Upon us as a tiger, and you spurned A century's devotion—dared, against, We took the blow, and then we grimly massed Our banners legions to the direful task Of tearing off the Hohenzollern mask.

And this was Germany! Our warriors pressed Onward and forward, till the battle test Showed that the Eagle of the western wave Conquered at will the abject, beaten slave! And this was Germany—this puff of dust, this worn gray shoddy, and this iron rust! —W. A. Phelon, in Cincinnati Times-Star.

Kept Busy Saluting.

There are so many foreigners in New York, wearing uniforms of all descriptions, that it is impossible to tell who is who, but the "doughboys" and the men-o'-war never fail to salute them. One afternoon an American soldier with service stripes on his sleeve and an American sailor similarly distinguished turned the corner of Thirty-fourth street and strolled down Park avenue in front of the Vanderbilt Hotel. At the same time a Hindu with head ornaments and a gorgeous scarf surrounded by a few turned the corner of Thirty-third street and started north. The soldier and sailor passed the Hindu with the snap of salutes and then both turned around to watch him recede. "What is he?" asked the sailor, "a general?" "Lord knows," answered the soldier. They turned back on their course, saluted the gorgeously clad tunic and continued on.

Edward's Opinion of William.

The late King Edward VII of England, according to the London Globe, thus sized up Kaiser Wilhelm: "That fellow is foolish enough and insipid enough to fight for the mastery of Europe, and to involve Great Britain among his enemies in the conflict, because he suffers from the delusion that he understands the British people better than anyone else in Europe. He is obsessed with the notion that, should he lose, he will always find apologists and supporters among the leaders of British opinion."

Frightful.

Ruck—Many papers are inviting suggestions as to what should be done with Bill Hohenzollern. Wing—I have a great plan. "What is it?" "I want some way of making him see himself as others see him."

Used to It.

"Gas attacks had no terrors for him." "Why not?" "He used to read people's gas meters before he joined the army."

of local color from the address of a Strassenknecht at the Presidential meeting and some of the other ladies who have visited the Holy Land have promised to bring souvenirs of their trip and relate an unusual experience. Miss Edith Holmes will sing and a chorus will render an Arabic melody. All the ladies of the congregation are cordially invited.

A TIMELY WARNING.

What most strikes close observers of the situation in Germany is said to be a complete absence of any acknowledgment of wrong due or appearance of regret for barbarous methods of war, to say nothing of real repentance. This self-satisfied and morally oblique attitude has been shown in many ways, including the appointment of Von der Lancken and Dr. Rieth to confer with Hoover on the subject of food supply—an unconscious blunder which caused the indignant food administrator not only to refuse to meet "that pair" but to send them word to "go to hell." For Von der Lancken was not only responsible for the failure to stop the murder of Edith Cavell and for unnumbered brutalities to the Belgians but for two and a half years of outrageous arrogance toward the American relief commission.

No wonder a warning has been sounded in France against the marked tendency in America and even in England to hurry upon a peace footing before the peace has been dictated and formally accepted. It is madness, according to the Journal des Debats, to revert materially or morally to a peace footing before pending controversies are settled. In consequence "it is becoming harder and harder to keep up troops for operations that may be indispensable; and when measures will finally have been taken on paper there may be no means of carrying them out." This may be precisely what the defeated but unchanged Germans are hoping for, and why Hindenburg is quietly establishing a "line of defense" a few miles away from the sections of Germany occupied by the victors. Only power to compel them can induce the Germans to abide even a solemnly covenanted peace.

Certain newspapers, notably the New York Times, are making an absurd attempt to stir up dissatisfaction over the alleged discrimination against soldiers who were not sent overseas being directed to wear silver service stripes while those sent overseas wear gold stripes. While there is truth in the statement that many of the men who did not go overseas were retained here against their will while many of those sent over went only because they had to, and of those sent across a large number were in no greater danger than those who were kept on this side, it is difficult to see what this has to do with the case. The service stripes merely indicate the time and place of service, just as the hat cords and collar insignia indicate the arm of service, and are worn for information, not as a decoration. There is no discrimination in the unpleasant sense of the word, in indicating the place and time of service, nor does any special glory attach to the gold stripes, as foreign service does not necessarily mean exposure to the dangers of the front line. This point has repeatedly been made clear by The Freeman's correspondent in France, who frankly stated some time ago that he and many others "might as well be working in Potomac" so far as danger was concerned. In view of the fact that all soldiers whose service was rendered in like safety may not be so frank about the matter, perhaps it might be well to award to those who were actually at the front some special mark of designation, such as a star below the service chevrons. Then there should be a rule or law, backed up by severe penalties, against anyone wearing a stripe or emblem to which he is not entitled.

The average American is not by choice a soldier, although events have shown that he can very quickly, when the need arises, become a first-class fighting man. But he became a soldier through necessity, and because he liked it, and just as soon as the necessity ceases, he wants to cease being a soldier. The American can not be that the purpose of a soldier is to fight and as soon as the fighting is over the life becomes a green tree with fatal results. too trifling to consider, become intolerable grievances when the soldier has nothing to do but think about them after he is sure there is no more fighting to be done. That is one reason why we are hearing more complaints from the army now than we heard before the armistice was signed. But, making due allowance for this state of affairs, there are complaints that are well grounded and that are a disgrace to the War Department. Delay in pay is one of these complaints, and the excuses given make the grievance all the greater. Another complaint is that of the soldiers who bought Liberty Bonds, permitting the Government to hold out from their meager pay the money to pay for the bonds, which were to be delivered when paid for. There are instances where the payments were completed months ago and the bonds have not been delivered yet. The soldier has nothing to show for the $5 or $10 a month that he invested and is naturally more or less worried over whether a Government that makes so many mistakes has any record of his payments and intends ever to deliver his bonds. These annoyances coming at a time when the soldier is naturally in the most dissatisfied state of mind, are the less without excuse because they are permitted after the fighting is over and therefore the press of work incident to carrying on the war no longer exists.

Why He Married Her.
A bachelor farmer, just over military, was finding himself hard up, thought the best thing he could do would be to marry a neighbor of his, who was reputed to have some bawls.

Meeting with no obstacles in his wooing he soon got married. One of the first purchases he made with a portion of her money was a horse. When he brought it home he called out to his wife to see it.

After admiring it she said: "Well, Tom, if it hadna been for my sister it wudna have been here." "Jenny," Tom replied, "it it hadna been for me, either to wedna have been here or not!"—Pearson's Weekly.

For safety's sake.
Few things have suffered a bigger smack from the deploring hand of war than wood. At the present time a bundle of firewood of most delicate physique costs a penny.

A watchman was discovered asleep minus his wooden leg, and a friendly neighbor asked him with the exclamation: "Hey, man, they've stolen your leg!"
The sleeper sat up and glowered. "Did ye think," said he, sarcastically, "that I wud gang to sleep in this locality w' anything about me for burnin'?" The wife takes a walk every night and brings it back in the morning!—Pearson's Weekly.

Check for the servant.
The famous English archaeologist and naturalist, Sir John Lubbock, was once overlooking the labor of a countryman who was working for him in a field. Sir John always ready to improve the minds of those in need of enlightenment, pointed to a heap of stones and asked, "Do you know how those stones were made?"
"Why, sir, I s'pect they grewed, same as latters," was the man's reply.

"Well," rejoined Lubbock, "if they lay there for fifty years they would not get any bigger!"
"No, sir," said the man, "in course they wouldn't,"—same as latters. Take latters out of the ground, and they stop growin'.

He Was Glad.
An "ing" tooth is not the best friend in the world, and this fact was demonstrated by a country justice of the peace when, suffering with the trouble, he was called upon to unite a rural couple in marriage.

The justice's irritability was not lessened when the prospective husband informed him that he would not be expected in this case to kiss the bride.

"Thank you," snapped the justice, under those circumstances, "I shall charge you only one half the usual fee."—Brooklyn Citizen.

FIRST KINGSTONIAN TO ENLIST HOME

Private DuBois, Victim of Trench Fever, Tells First Hand of Lieut. Crump's Death—Both Were With "O'Ryan's Roughnecks" in Cambrai Struggle That Beat Prussian Guards.

Private Robert F. DuBois, of Co. B, 107th Infantry, Twenty-seventh Division, U. S. A., who has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Edward DuBois, 64 Prince street, returned to Base Hospital, Greenhut building, 18th street and Broadway, New York city, this morning, to which place he was evacuated, moving from a base hospital in England about December 8th. He is being treated for trench fever which has affected his legs from his knees down. Private DuBois was reported to have been severely wounded, his mother, having received a telegram from the war department to that effect, which was printed in The Freeman on December 10th, and two days later she received a letter from him telling her he had arrived in New York and was in the Base Hospital. Private DuBois, aged 18, was the first to enlist in Kingston after a state of war was declared by the United States on April 10th, enlisting in Co. B, Tenth Regiment, N. Y. N. A., at the armory in this city on April 10th, having read in The Freeman that men were wanted. His brother, Edward, who was gassed in Belgium, enlisted later, in the same company, and both were transferred to the 107th Infantry. Captain Blight was evacuated and Lieut. Sam Crump, Jr., who was acting captain of the company, led the charge at the St. Quentin-Cambrai big battle on September 29th, last and was killed by machine gun fire. Private DuBois saw him a few minutes before he was killed. Samuel Crump, Sr., father of the dead captain, Friday evening, heard first hand from Private DuBois, at his mother's home, the story of the charge and details of the killing of his son.

Private DuBois went four times over the top, fighting in Belgium and France, was one of 35 out of 350 that escaped wounds and in a long story printed in the New York Evening Sun of December 13 is told how "O'Ryan's Roughnecks," the New York boys had fought the flower of the Prussian Guard and drove them back. From the Evening Sun article is printed the following as told by Private DuBois: Robert F. DuBois, a back private, told of the glory of the Empire State Division. DuBois is a member of the 107th Infantry, attached to Company B. He is a slightly built, fair haired, blue eyed boy, who does not look old enough to have been through the worst scrap of the war. But he did his share until he was stricken with pleurisy pneumonia and was evacuated to England and thence to America.

Officers Led the Way. "Just say for me," he said, "that the band of 'O'Ryan's Roughnecks' did their bit. We smashed the Hindenburg line with two divisions when five other divisions had tried in vain. We went into the line on September 27. We were told that the big stunt was going to be pulled off on September 28, and we were called up at 4:30 o'clock a. m. Our baggage opened on them, but they came right back, and it was terrible while it lasted.

"At last we were ready to go, and our officers went first, and called: 'Come on, boys. Let's go get 'em.' Well, we went. We were through the Prussian Guards that were supposed to be the best in the German Empire. We drove them back and made them quit. They were so willing to quit that they ran to us. We sent small detachments of prisoners back alone. They needed no guard.

"We paid for trusting some of the boys, though. One bunch we sent back discovered a machine gun in a shell hole and turned it on us. They got some of the boys, but the Aussies came behind us with some of the Highland regiments, and there were a lot of good Germans in that particular shell hole. Good Germans are dead Germans, you know.

"When we carried our objective and went on to the Canal du Nord there were just thirty-five of our men left. I don't know how I escaped, but I did. The bullets didn't get me, but pleurisy pneumonia did. Gee! Something always gets you. Still I'm pretty lucky, and when I'm discharged from this hospital I'll be glad of it. I'd like to be with the bunch, but take it from one who has been there, Sherman was was right."

Iron Duke Was Good Musician.
Most of you have heard of the Iron Duke, the duke of Wellington, who was one of the great commanders of England, winning glorious victories for her. But none of you, perhaps, knew that this Iron Duke, notwithstanding that he was a famous warrior, was also something of a musician. At one time, observes a writer in the Brooklyn Eagle, he directed a concert in England, after he had become famous as a commander. Not every soldier could do that, and turn so easily from one kind of work to another.

MOVIE FAN

Wants a Little Jazz Music Included on The Program.

To the Editor, Kingston Daily Freeman: Dear Sir:—May I ask that you publish just a line in regard to the music at the several theatres in the city. I am a regular attendant at the Opera House and am very fond of good music as played there by the orchestra. It is excellent, but why not some real jazz music once in awhile. Jazz music is all the rage now and I am certain that there are numerous movie patrons who will enjoy this music as well as the other excellent music as now played at the theatres. Very truly yours, A MOVIE PATRON.

Home Help Community.

A wealthy Englishman once said that a good home was an institution for civilizing a community, and instead of surrounding his own home by a high hedge, like many in the vicinity, he built about it an open fence, so that whoever passed, rich or poor, might enjoy the beauty of house and lawn and garden. It is a good thing for the girls of today who are to be the home makers of tomorrow, to grow up with the idea that the home owes something to the community.

Persia's Favorite Beverage.

The great beverage in Persia is sherbet, which is plentifully supplied and of which there are many varieties—some from the bowl of water with a squeeze of lemon to the clear concentrated juice of any sort of fruit to which water is added to dilute it. Only among the rich and fashionable are glasses used; in all other cases sherbet is served in china bowls and drunk from deep wooden spoons carved in pearwood.

Relic of a Lost Race.

At Casa Grande, near Florence, Italy, is the ruin, with walls still standing, of what probably was the last communal house erected on the southern plains by a race of pueblo builders that probably had departed elsewhere or had been merged with wilder tribes even before the passing to the westward of the Aztec south-bound pilgrims about the year 1300.

Not Adapted for Pet.

The average-sized Alaska walrus is as big as an ox and often weighs more than a ton. A walrus was recently killed by some whalers near Point Barrow whose head weighed 80 pounds, and skin, including flippers, 500 pounds. The animal had a girth of 14 feet, the skin was from half an inch to three inches in thickness, and the blubber weighed 500 pounds.

Reason for Term "Royal."

Naturally there is a good reason for calling golf a royal game, inasmuch as it was the favorite sport of the kings and queens of Scotland and England, as well as the dukes and earls in ancient times. King Charles, King James I, II, VI, Queen Mary of Scots and others were pre-eminent among the lovers of the recreation.

Famous Kaiser Wilhelm Canal.

The Kaiser Wilhelm canal was officially opened June 21, 1905. It is a little more than 91 miles in length, and for the easterly part of its course follows the line of the old Eider canal. It is 137 feet wide at the water surface and 72 feet deep at the bottom, with a depth of 23 feet 6 inches. The total cost of the canal was $39,000,000.

Friendship and Freedom.

There can be no friendship where there is no freedom. Friendship loves a free air and will not be penned up in strait and narrow enclosures. It will speak freely and not so, too; and take nothing ill where no ill is meant; nay, where it is, 'twill easily forgive, and forget, too, upon small acknowledgments.—Pena.

Venetian Gondolas.

It was not until the end of the seventeenth century that the Venetian gondola assumed its present simplicity and sameness of color. A vain attempt has been made to introduce it in other countries, but it has apparently resisted all efforts at acclimatization.

Narrow Escape.

One morning the youngest pupils were obliged to sit upon a movable bench to recite; soon there was a commotion in the midst of which both waved her hand excitedly and said: "Teacher, I don't like the seat and I should fall off the class."

Mother's Cook Book

"Light crisp rolls for breakfast, spongy sweet loaf for dinner and flaky biscuit for supper cover a multitude of culinary stars; and there is no one thing on which the health and comfort of a family more depend than the quality of its home-made bread."

Barley Currant Cakes.

Cream one-fourth of a cupful of shortening with one-half a cupful of sugar. Add two egg yolks, one-half a cupful of milk and beat well. Stir in two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, sifted with three-fourths of a cupful of barley flour. Add one-half cupful of currants, one teaspoonful of lemon extract and fold in the beaten whites of two eggs. Bake in a greased muffin pan in a moderate oven.

Potato Pancakes.

Grate six raw potatoes, add one-half teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of milk, one egg and three tablespoonfuls of flour. Mix and cook on a hot greased griddle. Serve with apple sauce.

Peanut Cookies.

Cream one-fourth of a cupful of sugar with two tablespoonfuls of shortening. Add one beaten egg, two tablespoonfuls of milk and three-fourths of a cupful of flour, sifted with a teaspoonful of baking powder and a pinch of salt. Stir in half a cupful of chopped peanuts and half a teaspoonful of lemon extract. Drop from a spoon on a greased baking pan and bake in quick oven.

Economy Cake.

Take one tablespoonful of melted butter, one egg, two-thirds of a cupful of milk, two cupfuls of sifted flour, two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar and a teaspoonful of soda sifted with the flour. Bake in layers or in a loaf, adding flavoring desired.

Oatmeal Biscuits.

Sift together one and one-fourth cupfuls of flour, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one and one-third cupfuls of oatmeal, six tablespoonfuls of melted shortening and two-thirds of a cupful of water. Mix and roll out thin on a floured board; cut with a biscuit cutter and bake in a greased pan in a moderate oven twenty minutes.

Corn Oysters.

Sift a half cupful of flour with a teaspoonful of baking powder and a half teaspoonful of salt, add two tablespoonfuls of melted fat to one can of corn; mix all together and add two beaten eggs. Fry in a little fat until brown, then turn.

Corn Flour Dumplings.

Take a cupful of corn flour, a teaspoonful of salt, four tablespoonfuls of milk, two eggs, a teaspoonful of baking powder; mix and beat well, drop into hot stew by tablespoonfuls.

Find Frosted and Decayed Potatoes May Be Utilized in Manufacture of Starch

Frosted and decayed potatoes have been found in trials conducted by the United States department of agriculture to be entirely capable of producing acceptable and frequently normal yields of clean, white starch of good quality. Much of this material appears to possess a potential value for the production of sizing starch approximating that of the stock at present used for this purpose. The mechanical difficulties in recovering from decayed pulp are sometimes less than from normal stock. Modified procedure adapted to these abnormal pulps doubtless could be devised, department specialists say, but there seems to be no reason why the present method might not be applied profitably in the meantime in the production of sizing starch in large factories at the large shipping centers installed to utilize the great quantities of frozen and decayed potatoes arriving during the fall and winter. This would turn to profitable account large supplies at present without value, but which are a serious burden of expense since to their cost of production must be added transportation and dumping charges.

The People Who Suffer Most From Their Conscience Are Sensitive and High-Minded

There may be well-intentioned people who say that virtue always leads to success and vice to misery. But it is an obvious and monstrous falsehood in a world where we profit by the good deeds of our parents and where millions are suffering untold tortures because of the deeds of foreign potentates. That those who suffer must have been wicked, and that those who triumph must have been virtuous, is one of the most inhuman beliefs in history. As to the doctrine that the reward of virtue is to be found in a clear conscience or high satisfaction—that is an even more violent falsehood. The people who suffer most from their conscience are obviously the sensitive and high-minded, while self-satisfaction comes most easily to the complacent and fortune-favored Jack Horners. The doctrine that the reward of moral life is a feeling of satisfaction or happiness is not only contrary to moral experience, but is intellectually sterile.—The New Republic.

WEATHER STRIPPING WILL SAVE YOU COAL

Following are a few suggestions by the United States Fuel Administration on "weather stripping" of houses, to save coal:

It is best to put weather stripping on all doors and windows because, there is a heat loss through every one, no matter how tight they might be. By all means strip those which are loose, or which have large crevices.

All doors and windows which have a northern exposure should be carefully stripped. Windows thus exposed would be much better protected if double windows are provided, because there is a certain amount of heat loss through the glass.

STONE RIDGE.

Stone Ridge, Jan. 4.—A farm denominated school will be held in the Grange hall Jan. 12-17. A number of the town have enrolled for this school. People interested in poultry keeping ought not to fail to hear L. M. Hurd, the poultry expert. A program of the subjects covered by the school will be given later.

Miss Mabel Dudley, who has been spending a two weeks' vacation with her parents, returned to Briar Cliff on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pratt, Sr., are spending some time in Florida.

Miss K. H. Cantine had the misfortune to injure her arm.

Mrs. Chauncey N. Stevens is improving.

Miss Laura Onslow has gone to Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dudley spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Asa Dudley.

Mrs. Charles Sherman visited her sister at Walkkill on New Year's day.

The Woolack.

The woolack is the big red bag, without back or arms, on which the lord chancellor sits when presiding over the deliberations of the house of lords. Its origin is curious. An act was passed in Elizabeth's reign prohibiting the exportation of wool, and to keep this source of national wealth in their lordships' minds the kindergarten notion of making them sit on wool bags was tried. Nowadays, when a new chancellor is appointed he is said to be appointed to the woolack and to sit on the woolack.

Henry Adams on Facts.

Adams was a man of industry. Always doing more work than he confessed to. With him all facts had to be interpreted into meaning and significance. "For facts as such I have a profound contempt," he said one day in his classroom; just as in his education he remarks that "nothing in education is so astonishing as the amount of ignorance it accumulates in the form of inert facts."—Henry O. Taylor in Atlantic.
